Part 7 — Reading Comprehension

Questions 20–22 refer to the following article.

Marlowe Business Journal — Aster Courts Investors At a tense shareholders' meeting this week, Aster Home Technologies asked investors to back its Halston expansion. Founder Diane Whitfield argued that Aria represents a rare investment opportunity, promising a strong return once the product launches. Not everyone was convinced: some shareholders worried that issuing new stock would reduce their dividends, and one noted that the smart-home market remains highly volatile. Chairman Harold Vance repeated his view that selling to Neura would be the safer financial choice. Whitfield disagreed, insisting the company can fund its own future.

20. Why did Aster hold the meeting? (A) To announce a merger (B) To ask investors to fund the Halston expansion (C) To pay a special dividend (D) To sell the company to Neura
21. Why were some shareholders worried? (A) The product had failed (B) Taxes would rise (C) Their dividends might be reduced (D) The factory would close
22. The word "volatile" in the article is closest in meaning to (A) unstable and changeable (B) completely safe (C) very profitable (D) slow to change

Questions 23–25 refer to the following report.

Aster Finance — Year-End Budget Report As the fiscal year draws to a close, the finance department has released a sobering summary. Heavy spending on the Halston expansion has pushed the company into a deficit, with no surplus expected until the Aria line begins to sell. Projected revenue for next year is promising, but profit will depend entirely on a successful launch. To control costs, management has decided to cut back on all non-essential spending and adopt a frugal approach across every department. "Every dollar we save now," Priya Nair told staff, "is a dollar we can put into making Aria a success."

23. What is the company's current financial position? (A) A large surplus (B) A deficit (C) Debt-free (D) Record profits
24. What has management decided to do? (A) Increase every department's budget (B) Pay a large dividend (C) Hire more staff (D) Cut back on non-essential spending
25. The word "frugal" in the report is closest in meaning to (A) wasteful (B) generous (C) thrifty (D) wealthy
